

MAKE IT MORE REALISTIC

Recently, my principal came to me about our dress code. He didn't want kids coming to school worrying about what they were wearing. He gave me the task of gathering student input to help inform changes in the dress code. We worked over the summer and into the early school year, and by October, the dress code was made more realistic and became less of an issue in our school.

—White Mountains Regional High School